in 1885. It is the oldest college in Oklahoma. The name of the school was later changed to Bacone College, honoring its founder.

Nazareth Institute was established in 1891 by William Henry Ketcham soon after the organization of Catholic work in Muscogee. It was first a girls' school, but boys were admitted later. Saint Joseph Academy was established in 1903 to meet the educational need of young men.

Evangel Mission, a school for Freedmen boys, began operation sometime in the 1880's. A.H. Mike, Muscogee's centenarian, was principal of the school for several years. It was located in the Union Agency.

The public school system of Muscogee was initiated in 1898 with F.M. Butler as superintendent The first school board consisted of W.C. Trent, Pleasant Porter, John B. Torrance, William T. Hutchings, and Oscar Beebe. The school was located on the site of the present Central Fire Station on Second Street.

(Pg 40 & 41) Federal Court Comes to Muscogee. An important event took place in the life of Muscogee in 1889, the advent of the federal court. Up to that time justice had been meted out at Fort Smith by Judge Isaac Parker, who took the bench soon after Muscogee came into existence, in 1875.

It had been the duty of the U.S. marshals to take prisoners to Fort Smith, but that was a long, tedious journey. A further complication was that the Fort Smith court did not always consider the laws and traditions of the Indian. The new court in Muscogee really was geared for the protection of the rights of the Indians. Many cases involving whites still were to be tried in Fort Smith.

When it was learned that a new federal court would be established, General Pleasant Porter made a trip to Washington to prevail on the President of the United States to establish it in Muscogee. It did not take a great deal of political pressure, since few towns wanted the honor. But General Porter felt that everyone in general and the Indians in particular would benefit from a federal court being established in Muscogee.

According to the October 14, 1921, issue of the Times-Democrat, the first federal court was held in Muscogee on April 1, 1889. The Old Timer relates that Judge J.M. Shackleford, Major William Nelson, U.S. Attorney A.Z. Waidron, Tom Needles, D Stewart Elliott, T.M. Foster, W.A. Ledbetter, J.G. Wells, Col. E.C. Boudinot, Judge W.A. Fears, Col G.W. Pease, and W.M. Harrison "alighted from the train in plug hats and frock coats the day before, with everyone present." Local citizens, including J.E. Turner, A.W. Robb, and M.B. Maxey, had a hurried conference with the dignitaries, suggesting that they remove the plug hats, fearing some cowpuncher might "take a shot at them." Indians were grinning in amusement.

Court opened with prayer, led by Rev J.Y. Bruce, Methodist minister, in the large rooms of the Knights of Pythias. According to Judge M.B. Maxey, the first case was in behalf of a man named Martin to regain a stolen horse. Col. Boudinot was the lawyer. The case drug on until Colonel Boudinot and the horse both died. The jurisdiction of the court was from Missouri to New Mexico. The first writ was issued by Marshal Needles. written on a piece of brown paper.

Picture appeared in the February 16, 1938 issue of the Times Democrat with the caption 'Where Judge Shackleford Took Oath." The location was given as 4 West Okmulgee. It was torn down in 1938.

According to Alice Robertson in her article in the End of the Century edition of the Phoenix, Pleasant Porter was the 1st juror sworn in, and Captain G.B. Hester, the father-in-law of Robert L. Owen, was the first foreman the jury. Waymon Crow Jackson was one of the first attorneys to appear before the court. He later served as U.S. Marshal, and was the first judge of Muskogee County after statehood.

For many years an anomalous situation existed in the Indian Territory which was productive of a degree of lawlessness probably unparalleled in the country. White people had been pouring into the country of the Five Civilized Tribes and there was no forum in which rights and remedies could be determined and enforced where they were concerned. Many years ago the United States courts in the adjoining states of Kansas, Texas and Arkansas were given jurisdiction to try certain offenses originating in the Indian Territory. However, these courts did not adequately meet the situation and for years the question of establishing a United States court in the Indian Territory had been agitated both in the Territory and in Congress.

The court at Fort Smith was the last district court to exercise a large measure of this jurisdiction. Finally, on March 1, 1889, Congress enacted legislation establishing a court of the Indian Territory. This was accomplished in the face of opposition by Fort Smith, Paris, Texas, and Wichita, Kansas, citizens who contemplated with great reluctance the loss of the business that had accrued to them by the jurisdiction their courts had exercised in the Indian Country. The seat of the new court was fixed at Muskogee, and Monday, April 1, 1889, was the day set for the inauguration of the new court.

This was one of the most eventful days in its history, said a Mukogee paper. For days past a constant stream of strangers had been pouring into the little town. While many of them were lawyers who intended to make Muskogee their future home, not a few came only to be present at the opening of the first white man's court ever held in the Indian Territory.

From the south-bound morning train into Muskogee on that eventful Monday descended the following officials who were to inaugurate a momentous change in the country: James M. Shackleford of Indiana, Judge; Thomas B. Needles of Illinois, United States marshal; Zachary T. Walrond of Kansas, prosecuting attorney; and Maj. William Nelson of Indiana, clerk of the court, all of whom proceeded first to register at McQuarie's dining room.

The air was tense with interest and the significance of the occasion. Flags were floating from the buildings along the streets and the people were greatly elated and excited. There having been no court room provided, the upstairs room over the Muskogee Phoenix had been hastily fitted up temporarily for that purpose. At 10:30 o'clock the officials of the court and a large number of citizens and visitors assembled in Phoenix Hall. Judge Shackleford presiding, called the meeting to order, and thereupon prayer was offered by the Rev. J. Y. Bryce, pastor of the M. E. Church South, in Muskogee. The judge thereupon directed Marshal Needles to open court. The citizens then, for the fist time in Oklahoma heard the proverbial "Hear ye, Hear ye, etc." and then realized that the first session of the first U. S. Court ever held in the Territory was in progress.

The district attorney then presented to the court the appointments, bonds and other credentials of the officers of the court; the judge accepted and ordered them spread upon the records and then adjourned court to meet the next morning.

Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock Judge Shackleford convened court and announced the first business of the court would be the promulgation of the rules defining the qualifications required of the attorneys applying for admission to practice in the court. The following were the rules so ordained:

- 1. Every male citizen of the age of twenty-one years of good moral character and who possesses the requisite qualifications of learning and ability, may, in the manner hereinafter provided, be admitted to practice as an attorney and counselor at law in the United States Court for the Indian Territory.
- 2. Every applicant, except as provided in Rule Three, shall be examined by a committee of attorneys to be appointed by the Judge, which examination shall be held in open court, unless otherwise directed by the Judge, and such applicant shall, before admission, produce to the Court by sworn petition, satisfactory proof of the foregoing qualifications, and shall also take an oath to support the constitution and laws of the United States, and faithfully to discharge the duties of the office on which he is about to enter.

3. Every attorney and counselor at law who has been admitted to practice in either the Supreme or any one of the Circuit or District Courts of the United States, or who has been admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of any state thereof, producing to this Court his certificate, or satisfactory proof of his admission to practice as last aforesaid, upon taking the requisite oath, shall be admitted to practice in this Court.

4. It shall be the duty of the Clerk of the Court to keep a Register in which he shall register and enroll every attorney or counselor at law admitted to practice in the Court, and the Clerk shall issue and deliver to each a license in due form to practice in this court, for which the Clerk may charge and collect the sum of Two Dollars.

Mr. Walrond, the district attorney, then moved for his own admission to practice in the court. The Judge allowed the motion and made the necessary order, after which the following attorneys were admitted to practice in said court upon presentation of proper certificates or other valid proofs of being attorneys in good standing: D. Stewart Elliot of Kansas, Y. N. Foster of Illinois, Napoleon B. Maxey of Illinois, Walter A. Ledbetter of Texas, E. C. Boudinot, of Arkansas, Robert L. Owen,² of Indian Territory, J. H. Crichton, of Kansas, L. E. Jackson, of Indiana, Ridge Paschal, of Indian Territory, Sampson D. Hinds, of Kansas, Preston Lester, of Tennessee, Joseph G. Ralls, of Arkansas, W. D. Crawford, of Arkansas, G. W. Pasco, of Texas, L. S. Fears, of Texas, J. H. Akin, of Indian Territory. The court thereupon adjourned until afternoon at two o'clock, when adjournment was again taken until the next day.

On Wednesday, April 3, at nine o'clock court was again convened by Judge Shackleford and on the motion of Mr. Walrond W. C. Jackson of Fort Smith was admitted to the bar. Judge Shackleford then appointed as jury commissioners for the June term P. J. Byrne of Muskogee, O. P. Brewer of Canadian District in the Cherokee Nation, and D. M. Hodge of the Creek Nation. The three commissioners were then sworn and instructed as to their duties, after which the marshal conducted them to a private room where they prepared a jury list.

The court thereupon appointed W. N. Martin, A. McCoy and Charley LeFlore jury commissioners for the September term of court, and they were likewise instructed and then shown to a private room to prepare a jury list. The court then adjourned until two o'clock. At the afternoon session the jury commissioners handed in the jury lists and after being complimented by the court for the prompt discharge of their duties the court adjourned until the following day.

On Thursday Judge Shackleford opened court at the appointed hour. Motion was made for admission to the bar of the following lawyers, all of whom, on presentation of certificates and proofs were duly admitted and sworn as attorneys: James Brizzolara of Arkansas, Leroy Neal, W. N. Patterson and Thomas George, all of Kansas. The Court thereupon appointed Maj. William Nelson the Court Clerk, as United States commissioner for the Indian Territory, Benjamin Dye deputy clerk, and William W. Ansley deputy marshal. Upon the opening of the afternoon session of the court Andrew Roeburg applied for naturalization papers. Indian policemen William Foreman and G. Barnum were then sworn in as United States deputy marshals. There being no further business before the court it adjourned until the first Monday in June, 1889, pursuant to the following order:

Whereas, Pursuant to an Act of Congress entitled "An Act to establish a United States Court for the Indian Territory and other purposes" approved March 1, 1889, the above named Court met at Muscogee, in the Indian Territory, on the first Monday of April, 1889, in the regular April term; and

Whereas, There was no venire for a jury returnable to said regular term, and no rule of said court at its organization designating the return day for precepts, writs, summonses, etc., issued out of the clerk's office for said court, and the court subsequently at said term has adopted a rule governing the proceedings of the same; and

Whereas, The undersigned Judge of said court is fully advised of the necessity of a special session of this court for the transaction of pressing business at an early and convenient date under the provisions of the said Act.

Now therefore, The undersigned James M. Shackleford, Judge of the said court does on this Fifth day of April, A. D., 1889, call a special session of the United States court for the Indian Territory, to begin and be holden at Muscogee, in said Territory, at the hour of ten (10) o'clock a. m., on the first Monday of June, 1889, and it is by these presents announced that said term of said court will continue from day to day for the transaction of all business lawfully within its cognizance under the existing rules and regulations of said court until the adjournment of the said session.

Done at Muscogee, in the Indian Territory, on the Fifth day of April, A. D., 1889.

James M. Shackleford, Judge of said Court.

On Wednesday, April 3, at two o'clock p. m., the attorneys theretofore admitted to practice in this court met for the purpose of organizing a bar association. Judge Shackleford was called to the chair and Prosecuting Attorney Walrond was appointed secretary.

On motion of Mr. Elliot, of Kansas, the names of the following members were enrolled, viz: D. Stewart Elliott, of Kansas, Y. N. Foster, of Illinois; Napoleon B. Maxey, of Illinois; Walter A. Ledbetter, of Texas; S. E. Jackson, of Indiana; Ridge Pascal, of the Cherokee Nation, I T.; Sampson O. Hinds, of Kansas; Preston S. Lester, of Tennessee; J. G. Ralls, of Ohio; Robert L. Owen, of the Cherokee Nation, I. T.; W. D.

Crawford, of Missouri; G. W. Pasco, of Texas; L. S. Fears, of the Cherokee Nation; J. H. Akin, Indian Territory.

A committee composed of Messers. Elliott, Pascal and Foster was appointed to select permanent officers for the Association. They nominated Judge J. M. Shackleford president, Z. T. Walrond vice-president, Col. R. L. Owen secretary, and N. B. Maxey treasurer, and their report was adopted.

On motion of Mr. Ledbetter of Texas the chair appointed Messers. Ledbetter, Elliott, Pascal, Jackson and Ralls as a committee on Constitution and By-laws. The committee was directed to report at the next meeting of the Association. Remarks relating to the objects of the Bar Association were then made by Judge Shackleford, Messrs. Walrond, Elliott, Foster and Hinds. The Association then adjourned to meet again in the court room the first Monday of the next term of this Court.

A local paper introduced the new court officials to its readers in the following language:3

"Judge James B. Shackleford is a gentleman some fifty odd years of age who has been on the bench a number of times in the state courts of Indiana. He is pleasant and courteous in the extreme, and his decisions, though firm, are delivered in a good natured and friendly manner. His popularity with our people is assured.⁴

"The attorney, Mr. Z. T. Walrond, was a member of the last Kansas legislature, is a man who is held in the highest esteem by the people of his Kansas home and makes friends of all whom he meets. He has made an especial study of criminal law and practice, and we hazard nothing in asserting that he will perform his duties to the letter, as well as to the satisfaction of all.⁵

"Thomas B. Needles, the marshal, is a banker by profession and we should not be surprised if he soon wearies of the arduous duties imposed by his office. He is fat, good natured, and has about him an air at once attractive and pleasing, and which will do not a little to make the court popular.

"The gentleman selected by Judge Shackleford as clerk of the court is Maj. William Nelson, of Evansville, Indiana. Major Nelson is a retired officer and served not many years ago in this immediate country and also in Arizona. He is abundantly equipped with the good, hard sense necessary to the successful administration of the duties which his office imposes.

"In the selection of the gentlemen who make up this court, there is a point which might prove of value to certain parties. Not one of them solicited the appointment and the first intimation they received of what was to occur was a telegraphic enquiry whether they would accept.

"For the purpose of getting acquainted with the officials of the Western District of Arkansas, as well as to confer and arrive at an understanding regarding the jurisdiction of the two tribunals, the Muskogee officers went to Fort Smith this week, and will thence proceed to their homes to place their personal affairs in shape for leaving. The clerk will, of course, remain at his post, or have a deputy there to attend to the filing of suits, and a deputy marshal will also be on hand. In this connection it might be well enough to state that several civil suits were begun before adjournment Tuesday noon.

"The jury commissioners selected were P. J. Byrne, and Perry Brewer, of Muskogee, and Capt. J. T. Standley, of Atoka; but the latter could not serve and another was named. They received instructions and entered upon their duties Wednesday morning.

The first session of this court at which the actual business of trying cases was inaugurated was held in Phoenix Hall on Monday morning, June 3, 1889, at ten o'clock. The hall was crowded with lawyers, officers, jurors, witnesses and visitors. Judge Shackleford appointed a committee composed of Hinds, Owen, Ledbetter and Wisdom to examine applicants for admission to the bar and directed them to act at once.

A jury was empaneled and the court called the first case, but as the witnesses were not present court adjourned until afternoon.

When court convened at two o'clock Judge Hinds, chairman of the committee on admission, reported favorably the names of 26 attorneys. He also stated that a number of applicants had filed who did not qualify under the rules of the court. Following this motions were presented to quash summons and dismiss attachments.

The court then called the first case, a criminal proceeding against A. Husted, charged with intimidating and assaulting settlers in Oklahoma. After the jury panel was sworn Prosecuting Attorney Walrond read the section of the law providing that United States citizens could be tried only before a jury composed of United States citizens. Thereupon it was learned that of the 36 jurors summoned all but three were Indian citizens and were therefore not competent to sit in the case on trial. Another jury was then called composed wholly of United States citizens and the trial proceeded. Court adjourned at six o'clock without having finished the trial of this case.

On the opening of court on Tuesday, June 4, after the presentation of a number of motions, a grand jury composed of 16 men was sworn and instructed by Judge Shackleford to act upon cases in which the accused had been held by the United States Commissioner and such as were presented by the prosecuting attorney.

The grand jury was composed of the following: J. A. Patterson, foreman; D. N. Robb, C. W. Turner, J. L. Thomas, Rev. Sugar George, Ned Robins, James Sandford, Wm. Harsha, O. P. Brewer, S. B. Callahan, J. C. Davison, T. F. Meagher, Wm. A. Madden, Jno. O. Cobb, R. A. Evans, and J. M. Rucker.

The court then proceeded with the trial of the United States against Husted. Congressman Silas Hare, of Sherman, Texas, who represented the defendant, challenged the jurisdiction of the court over the Oklahoma country. Reserving decision on the question, the court proceeded with the trial and the case was submitted to the jury at three o'clock in the afternoon.

On Wednesday morning, the jury having deliberated all night, brought in a verdict finding A. Husted guilty as charged and the other defendants not guilty. Four more attorneys were admitted to practice and the court then announced rules for the guidance of the bar: motions and demurrers to be disposed of before an answer could be filed; the different Indian Nations were to be treated as counties for the purpose of verification; the marshal could not be required to make returns on processes until the costs were paid.

After hearing a number of motions on the question of jurisdiction the grand jury brought in its report, finding one indictment against William Barrett and Harry Clinton charged with larceny.

The next morning was occupied with the hearing of motions, only a few of which were passed upon. Default was taken in more than 50 cases and in a few, execution was ordered.

Monday, June 24, was given over to the celebration of the beginning of the new court house. A large assemblage of strangers came to Muskogee to witness the laying of the corner stone by the Grand Lodge of Masons of the Indian Territory. The Muskogee Phoenix of June 27 described the proceedings on that important occasion.

"A RED LETTER DAY

"On Monday last Muskogee once again evidenced the claim that for getting up good celebrations on short notice she bears the palm. Notwithstanding the fact that the festive occasion was but little advertised, Monday last witnessed quite an assemblage of strangers in our city, to either look on or take part in the ceremonies consequent upon the laying of the corner stone of the new U. S. Court Building by the Grand Lodge of Masons of the Indian Territory.

"Sunday afternoon the celebrated Parsons Cour de Leon Band arrived, and Monday morning trains brought in a large number of persons from both above and below, and when about nine o'clock the band began to play, Main Street in Muskogee resembled, (we imagine) on a small scale, Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington on Inauguration Day.

"The Masons assembled in their hall over the post office about 10 o'clock, and after quite a little delay the procession, headed by the band, marched to the grounds where, with appropriate ceremonies, the laying of the corner stone took place, after which the large audience present were entertained by able addresses from Robt. W. Hill, D. D., and Hon. Z. T. Walrond.

"After the ceremonies connected with the laying of the corner stone were over, barbecued meat of various kinds was served to all who wanted it in quantities to suit, and if a single individual went hungry on Monday last it was his own fault, as there was enough prepared to feed every individual man, woman and child in the entire assemblage.

"By the kindness of Grand Secretary J. S. Murrow, we are permitted to give the official report of the day:

" 'EMERGENT COMMUNICATION OF THE M. W. GRAND LODGE OF INDIAN TERRITORY.

" 'A special communication of the M. W. Grand Lodge of Indian Territory was held in the hall of Muskogee Lodge, Muskogee Nation, June 24, 1889, A. L. 5889, 11 o'clock A. M. A special dispensation was read from the M. W. Grand Master, John Rennie, authorizing and empowering the R. W. Deputy Grand Master Leo. E. Bennett, to assemble the M. W. Grand Lodge of the Indian Territory in special convention at Muskogee this day for the purpose of laying the corner stone of the United States Court Building.

Bartlett's name is familiar to many enthusiasts of cowboy working gear. He has shipped saddles to buyers in many states in the United States including Alaska, and to collectors in England, Canada, and Mexico. The Gene Autry Museum in Los Angeles, California purchased a saddle from him for showing there.

Western artists use Bartlett's saddles to bring the stamp of authenticity to their work. Fred Fellows of Big Fork, Montana, Grant Speed of Utah, Don Stivers of Wilton, Conn., and sculptor Clay Dahlberg of Hunt, Tex., breathe a sense of life into these inanimate pieces of history.

How does Bartlett spend his days now that he is retired form farming and ranching? He displays his treasures in shows and museums, winning awards and recognition for the excellence of his collection or contacting prospective traders. There is always some item he'd like to have or a particular piece he's striving to locate. Once obtained, the many hours of restoration work begin.

Other times you can find him giving programs about western heritage or promoting the Harmon County Museum.

Thanks to devoted men like Kenneth Bartlett, the American cowboy is as real as John Wayne always made him seem to be.

Sooner Parade Later

If you head for Guthrie's '89er Day Parade at the usual time today, you'll be a true Sooner.

The parade, which traditionally began at 10 a.m., won't start this year until noon, according to a Chamber of Commerce spokesman.

But don't fret about arriving early if your plans are already made. While waiting for the parade to start, you can browse the Indian Fine Art Show in the Lintz Building or visit the '89er Carnival in the downtown area.

OKLAHOMA'S FIRST COURT

By Grant Foreman.

For many years an anomalous situation existed in the Indian Territory which was productive of a degree of lawlessness probably unparalleled in the country. White people had been pouring into the country of the Five Civilized Tribes and there was no forum in which rights and remedies could be determined and enforced where they were concerned. Many years ago the United States courts in the adjoining states of Kansas, Texas and Arkansas were given jurisdiction to try certain offenses originating in the Indian Territory. However, these courts did not adequately meet the situation and for years the question of establishing a United States court in the Indian Territory had been agitated both in the Territory and in Congress.

The court at Fort Smith was the last district court to exercise a large measure of this jurisdiction. Finally, on March 1, 1889, Congress enacted legislation establishing a court of the Indian Territory. This was accomplished in the face of opposition by Fort Smith, Paris, Texas, and Wichita, Kansas, citizens who contemplated with great reluctance the loss of the business that had accrued to them by the jurisdiction their courts had exercised in the Indian Country. The seat of the new court was fixed at Muskogee, and Monday, April 1, 1889, was the day set for the inauguration of the new court.

This was one of the most eventful days in its history, said a Mukogee paper. For days past a constant stream of strangers had been pouring into the little town. While many of them were lawyers who intended to make Muskogee their future home, not a few came only to be present at the opening of the first white man's court ever held in the Indian Territory.

From the south-bound morning train into Muskogee on that eventful Monday descended the following officials who were to inaugurate a momentous change in the country: James M. Shackleford of Indiana, Judge; Thomas B. Needles of Illinois, United States marshal; Zachary T. Walrond of Kansas, prosecuting attorney; and Maj. William Nelson of Indiana, clerk of the court, all of whom proceeded first to register at McQuarie's dining room.

The air was tense with interest and the significance of the occasion. Flags were floating from the buildings along the streets and the people were greatly elated and excited. There having been no court room provided, the upstairs room over the Muskogee Phoenix had been hastily fitted up temporarily for that purpose. At 10:30 o'clock the officials of the court and a large number of citizens and visitors assembled in Phoenix Hall. Judge Shackleford presiding, called the meeting to order, and thereupon prayer was offered by the Rev. J. Y. Bryce, pastor of the M. E. Church South, in Muskogee. The judge thereupon directed Marshal Needles to open court. The citizens then, for the first time in Oklahoma heard the proverbial "Hear ye, Hear ye, etc." and then realized that the first session of the first U. S. Court ever held in the Territory was in progress.

The district attorney then presented to the court the appointments, bonds and other credentials of the officers of the court; the judge accepted and ordered them spread upon the records and then adjourned court to meet the next morning.

Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock Judge Shackleford convened court and announced the first business of the court would be the promulgation of the rules defining the qualifications required of the attorneys applying for admission to practice in the court. The following were the rules so ordained:

- 1. Every male citizen of the age of twenty-one years of good moral character and who possesses the requisite qualifications of learning and ability, may, in the manner hereinafter provided, be admitted to practice as an attorney and counselor at law in the United States Court for the Indian Territory.
- 2. Every applicant, except as provided in Rule Three, shall be examined by a committee of attorneys to be appointed by the Judge, which examination shall be held in open court, unless otherwise directed by the Judge, and such applicant shall, before admission, produce to the Court by sworn petition, satisfactory proof of the foregoing qualifications, and shall also take an oath

The court thereupon appointed W. N. Martin, A. McCoy and Charley LeFlore jury commissioners for the September term of court, and they were likewise instructed and then shown to a private room to prepare a jury list. The court then adjourned until two o'clock. At the afternoon session the jury commissioners handed in the jury lists and after being complimented by the court for the prompt discharge of their duties the court adjourned until the following day.

On Thursday Judge Shackleford opened court at the appointed hour. Motion was made for admission to the bar of the following lawyers, all of whom, on presentation of certificates and proofs were duly admitted and sworn as attorneys: James Brizzolara of Arkansas, Leroy Neal, W. N. Patterson and Thomas George, all of Kansas. The Court thereupon appointed Maj. William Nelson the Court Clerk, as United States commissioner for the Indian Territory, Benjamin Dye deputy clerk, and William W. Ansley deputy marshal. Upon the opening of the afternoon session of the court Andrew Roeburg applied for naturalization papers. Indian policemen William Foreman and G. Barnum were then sworn in as United States deputy marshals. There being no further business before the court it adjourned until the first Monday in June, 1889, pursuant to the following order:

Whereas, Pursuant to an Act of Congress entitled "An Act to establish a United States Court for the Indian Territory and other purposes" approved March 1, 1889, the above named Court met at Muscogee, in the Indian Territory, on the first Monday of April, 1889, in the regular April term; and

Whereas, There was no venire for a jury returnable to said regular term, and no rule of said court at its organization designating the return day for precepts, writs, summonses, etc., issued out of the clerk's office for said court, and the court subsequently at said term has adopted a rule governing the proceedings of the same; and

The committee was directed to report at the next meeting of the Association. Remarks relating to the objects of the Bar Association were then made by Judge Shackleford, Messrs. Walrond, Elliott, Foster and Hinds. The Association then adjourned to meet again in the court room the first Monday of the next term of this Court.

A local paper introduced the new court officials to its readers in the following language:

"Judge James B. Shackleford is a gentleman some fifty odd years of age who has been on the bench a number of times in the state courts of Indiana. He is pleasant and courteous in the extreme, and his decisions, though firm, are delivered in a good natured and friendly manner. His popularity with our people is assured.

"The attorney, Mr. Z. T. Walrond, was a member of the last Kansas legislature, is a man who is held in the highest esteem by the people of his Kansas home and makes friends of all whom he meets. He has made an especial study of criminal law and practice, and we hazard nothing in asserting that he will perform his duties to the letter, as well as to the satisfaction of all.⁵

"Thomas B. Needles, the marshal, is a banker by profession and we should not be surprised if he soon wearies of the arduous duties imposed by his office. He is fat, good natured, and has about him an air at once attractive and pleasing, and which will do not a little to make the court popular."

"The gentleman selected by Judge Shackleford as clerk of the court is Maj. William Nelson, of Evansville, Indiana. Major Nelson is a retired officer and served not many years ago in this immediate country and also in Arizona. He is abundantly equipped

Judge Shackelford who captured Morgan the Raider, had a distinguished career in the Civil War, an account of which by Carolyn Thomas Foreman is to be seen in the Chronicles of Oklahoma XII p. 103.

Mr. Walrond lived and practiced law in Muskogee until his death.

^{*}Colonel Needles afterward served as a member of the Commission to the Five Civilized Tribes in Muskogee.

The court then called the first case, a criminal proceeding against A. Husted, charged with intimidating and assaulting settlers in Oklahoma. After the jury panel was sworn Prosecuting Attorney Walrond read the section of the law providing that United States citizens could be tried only before a jury composed of United States citizens. Thereupon it was learned that of the 36 jurors summoned all but three were Indian citizens and were therefore not competent to sit in the case on trial. Another jury was then called composed wholly of United States citizens and the trial proceeded. Court adjourned at six o'clock without having finished the trial of this case.

On the opening of court on Tuesday, June 4, after the presentation of a number of motions, a grand jury composed of 16 men was sworn and instructed by Judge Shackleford to act upon cases in which the accused had been held by the United States Commissioner and such as were presented by the prosecuting attorney.

The grand jury was composed of the following: J. A. Patterson, foreman; D. N. Robb, C. W. Turner, J. L. Thomas, Rev. Sugar George, Ned Robins, James Sandford, Wm. Harsha, O. P. Brewer, S. B. Callahan, J. C. Davison, T. F. Meagher, Wm. A. Madden, Jno. O. Cobb, R. A. Evans, and J. M. Rucker.

The court then proceeded with the trial of the United States against Husted. Congressman Silas Hare, of Sherman, Texas, who represented the defendant, challenged the jurisdiction of the court over the Oklahoma country. Reserving decision on the question, the court proceeded with the trial and the case was submitted to the jury at three o'clock in the afternoon.

On Wednesday morning, the jury having deliberated all night, brought in a verdict finding A. Husted guilty as charged and the other defendants not guilty. Four more attorneys were admitted to practice and the court then announced rules for the guidance of the bar: motions and demurrers to be disposed of before an answer could be filed; the different Indian Nations were to be treated as counties for the purpose of verification; the marshal could not be required to make returns on processes until the costs were paid.

After hearing a number of motions on the question of jurisdiction the grand jury brought in its report, finding one indictment against W larceny.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT YOUR ORDER

We can only search for a record based on the information you provide in Blocks 2-17. The success and accuracy of our search is determined by the completeness and accuracy of the information you provide. When you send more than one form at a time, each form is handled separately. Therefore, you may not receive all of your replies at the same time.

Military service records rarely contain family information. Pension application files generally are most useful to those who are doing genealogical research and contain the most complete information regarding a man's military career. We suggest that you first request copies of a man's pension file. You should request copies of a bounty-land warrant file or a military record only when no pension file exists. If the veteran's service was during the Revolutionary War, bounty-land warrantapplications have been consolidated with pension application papers. You can obtain both files by requesting the pension file only.

Often there are many files for veterans of the same or nearly the same name. If there are five or fewer files for men with the same name as the individual in whom you are interested, we will examine all the relevant files and compare their contents with the information that you have provided us. If the veteran's identity seems obvious, we will furnish you a copy of the file we think is the correct one.

If there are more than five files, we will not make a file-by-file check to see if the information in the numerous files matches that provided for the veteran in whom you are interested. In such cases, we suggest that you visit the National Archives and examine the various files, or hire a professional researcher to examine the files for you. We do not maintain a list of persons who do research for a fee; however, many researchers advertise their services in genealogical periodicals, usually available in libraries.

When we are unable to provide copies of all documents, because of the size of a pension or bounty-land warrant application file, we will send copies of the documents we think will be most useful to you. You may order copies of all documents in a file by making a specific request. We will notify you of the cost of the copies.

Additional copies of this form and more information about the availability of records pertaining to military service or family histories may be found in our free genealogical information leaflets and forms. These may be requested by writing to:

Dear Mr. Blake:

Thank you for your interest in the Five Civilized Tribes Museum. Unfortunately, we do not have a research department and I am not aware of the museum having information on Major Nelson. Unless he is a member of one of the Five Civilized Tribes, we would not have a record of him.

I have forwarded your letter to Nadine Harnage, District Court Clerk, Muskogee County. After speaking with the Federal Court Clerk, I feel this will be your best chance for gaining information.

Thank you and I hope your search is successful.

MAY 3 0 1989

520 East Mansur Guthrie, Oklahoma 73044 27 May 1989

Dear Mr. Blake:

I do not find any Major Nelson in my city directories for 1889 and 1890, nor is he on the list (admittedly partial) of the Army personnel here during the period.

Because the commanders of the two military units here in 1889 were captains, I rather doubt that Major Nelson was here on active duty. It was a commonplace for men here in the earliest days to style themselves with former ranks in the Army, so it is entirely possible that the rank was a courtesy one. (And, I might add, sometimes the rank self-styled was higher than actual. One man called a colonel was actually a lieutenant on active duty.)

Your reference to his having been at Muskogee later poses two questions. The nearest Army installation was at Ft. Gibson, near there. Also, the man could have been as a civilian attached to the United States court at Muskogee. It had been recently established and was in INdian Territory. Indeed, that possibility raises the point that may be an answer. If he were a civilian, using his courtesy title, it is possible that he was a deputy marshal from the MUskogee court sent to Guthrie to help insure order at the time of the Run.

Both the Muskogee Marshal and the Marshal from the Kansas court sent numerous deputies to Guthrie at the time of the Run. It was common knowledge that these "legal sooners" used their presence in the area to stake claims for themselves at noon April 22, well in advance of those making the Run from the borders. Hence the probability that Major Nelson was so ready to turn his claim for cash on the Blue Bell lot.

I am sorry that I do not have a complete listing of the deputies who were appointed by the Marshals. I can only suggest that you query the National Archives in Washington, D. C. for possible Army service records of Major Nelson and/or the listing of deputies appointed by the Marshal of the United States court at Muskogee.

This probably is of no help to you, but it is the best I can come up with. I am sorry to have delayed in answering; I broke my hip and the result is that everything has slowed down for me. Good luck on you search.

RE: Major William Nelson, U.S Army - Period 1890-1900

Dear Mrs. Holmes:

I was given your name and address by Ms. Jane Thomas of the Logan County Historical Society as a possible source of information on this party.

I am enclosing an addressed stamped envelope for your reply.

I understand he was in Guthrie on the day of the Land Run - April 22, 1889, apparantly in a military capacity to oversee the run? Later, I understand, he was stationed at Muskogee in a military capacity as the clerk at the military installation there?

This is all of the information I have on this fellow and I do not know how accurate it is.

Many thanks for your help in this matter and if there is a charge please let me know and I will send a check by return mail.

Sincerely,

Dear Ms. Thomas:

I talked to you some time ago about some background on the above party. I have not had any success on my own to date, but I seem to remember you said some student or local fellow had collected a good bit on him.

If I remember correctly would it be possible for you to tell who this individual is so I can contact for help? It would certainly be appreciated.

I am sorry I did not interpret your letter correctly. When you said he retired to Evansville, I presumed he lived here until he died. His retirement seems to have been a hiatus rather than a permanent sort of thing.

Anyway, you were right and I was wrong. He came here probably in 1883 and lived here until 1889. I am sending the first appearance in the city directory. In future listings, he drops the U.S. Army description and moves to another house. In fact, in each listing, he is living in another house—always in the same neighborhood and five or six blocks away.

These city directory listings are the only indication he was ever here. He was too late for the 1880 census, and he appears to have done nothing of historical interest.

Dear Mr. Chandler:

In going through my files, I came across your letter regarding the above. I just noticed your search was from 1890 on. Actually, he left Evansville in 1889 and came to Oklahoma to act as the Clerk for the Court, set up in Muskogee Indian Territory which was the first Court in this area. It had originally been under the jurisdiction of Ft. Smith, Arkansas of Judge Parker's (Hanging Judge).

Any information you can get me would certainly be appreciated.

I am trying to get information on an U.S. Army Officer that retired to Evansville, Indiana by the name of William Nelson, a Major.

He served in the West at various times as an Army Officer. The last report on him is as a retired officer he was appointed as the Clerk of an Army Court set up in Eastern Oklahoma at Okmulgee, Oklahoma Territory, in the year 1889.

Any help you can give us on this gentlemen will be greatly appreciated.

I checked our city directories from 1890 until 1905 and do not find a listing for a William Nelson that would seem to be the one you want. There are some William Nelsons listed, but they are common laborers, miners, and porters, which do not seem to be the sort of career pursued by a retired officer.

Neither do I find Major Nelson listed as having died in this county.

If you have further information that might help me in this research, please let me know.

I received your request for information concerning a Major William Nelson. I checked through my biography files, but had no information on this man. I looked at the Nelson listings in the several late-1800s and 1900s city directories that I have on hand, but the effort was fruitless. I am sorry that I cannot help you any further.
